

REIMAGINING PHOTO COMPETITION!

In 2020, International Women's Ministries will experience a REIMAGINING, and we want you to be part of it!

We're hosting an international photography competition to capture the essence of women in mission and ministry in The Salvation Army.

Your photos could be portraits, action shots from the frontline or reflective photos, as long as the photos showcase aspects of women's ministries.

All winning photos will be displayed at Gallery 101 in February 2020 at The Salvation Army's International Headquarters in London, as well as online.

- Please send your entries to revive@salvationarmy.org. If you are sending large files or multiple entries, please use a file transfer tool like wetransfer.com.
- Please avoid sending links to large Facebook or Flickr albums, and instead send the specific photos you want to highlight for the competition.
- Include your full name, which territory you're from and your role in The Salvation Army (e.g. officer, volunteer, staff, corps member etc).
- Please include a description to let us know what is happening in the photo(s).
- For printing purposes, please try to ensure your image displays at least 300dpi at A4 size.
- Please seek permission from the people featured in your photos (or in the case of under 18s, from their parents) before you submit your entry. With identifiable children, the signed consent of parent or guardian is required. All territorial safeguarding policies and national legal requirements regarding the photographing of children and young people should naturally be observed.
